Rites of Passage: The Legacy of Adventure Climbing in the Sierra Nevada by E.C. Joe

Eddie "E.C." Joe, a native of Bakersfield, started climbing in the Southern Sierra in 1974. In the 1990s, he assisted in the research of Southern Sierra peregrine falcons and was a founding member of the Southern Sierra Climbers' Association.

Rock climbing throughout the Southern Sierra Nevada Mountains of California has been going about quietly for well over a century. The exploits of its pioneers into this beautiful mountain range have been infrequently documented in a few books, alpine journals, and magazines.
